motions are continuous, admitting of an extraordinary rate of speed, either by steam or foot power. Every motion of the treadle makes alk sitches, thus producing about one-third more work in a day than other Sowing inachines. It has no step motions, and tightens the alach with the needle out of the fabric. It was the worthing less parts than any other first-class Sowing Blachine. Its arm is fully eight and one-half inches leng and Eve and one-half inches high, and the whole Machine is very compactly and scientifically constructed in proportions, elegance, design and appearance. Its simple, powerful and perfect mechanism places it as far in advance of all other Sewing Machines as the telephone is superior to the tin speaking tube. Keeping up the Honors.

Under the above caption, the Columbia Yeoman, among other things, says :

"We happen to know it to be a fact that not a few men of very ordinary intellect and mental ability, by accident or fortuitous circumstances, attained to positions of rank in the army, and, that, in point of fact, they commanded mes who were their su, e fors in every respect except that of military rank.

We therefore say that in looking for men to fill our odices this thing Clonels and Majors, with now and army is all wrong. There was many and better service, taking everything into consideration, than some of these who wore epaulettes and carried swords. We speak from actual knowledge of the facts; and as one who occupied an intermediate position in grade of rank, we hesitate not to say that the rank and file of the old army of the 'lost cause' had just as much intelligence, courage and true patriotism in it as did the nigher grades of rank. How ring men for past services is all right, provide i tumen who really descretic are honored Let us away forever with this of a that only those who were officers in the army are worthy to fit; our actives and cart places must be made for them, one already exist. As one was car an a sword, we say, in all candle, and innesty that much of the very best material in the South was in the ditches, on the vidette post and in the open field in the front ranks, and time many of them are us descrying, when honors are to be conferred, as any officer, fron Gen. Lee down. We know this is not a the rank and file, and see what it contains, now and then "

Sheridae in Fornandina.

"Three cheers for Gen. Sheridan." These words came over the telegraph to us from the calm and balmy city of Fernandina. Great heavens! Can it be; is it so? Can human nature get so low as this? Was it Puil Sheridan, the great despotier? Was proof of my being a Christian," may, the empiries of entry, prite, jeal it the ruffian who made the fair women of the valley of Virginia so poor that their bodies were muchle to give mik to their sucklings? Was this the brute who was hurrahed and cheered for in the beautiful city of Fernandina? Surely not; but it's, we taink that the devil himself is just y entitled to a turlough, and that from Richmond to Galveston the dram and fire and throat should greet him. Phil She, dan greeted in the South? On, Lord, please deliver us! Cerhaps our senses are upon the Rip Van Winkle order, but we would sooner pay homage to the greatest be, caver to orded in Sacred West titan to tass a button in honor of this g ca conconvicted criminal. Suicide.

A dispatch in this morning's Register, dated Sumter, January 22, says . "Preston D. Mood, editor of the Clarendon Press, and teacher of a successful private school, blew his brains out last night at Manning, where he resided. It is rumored that the refusal of a fair daughter of Israel to reciprocate his attachment caused the rasmaet He was about 21 years old, and was the son of Rev. Henry M. Mood, a distinguished Methodist Minister, and a most exemplary gentleman The young man was talented but egratic -some say not always sane. He was reckless as an editor, and was recently challenged by young Charles Pool on account of newspaper remarks. Both parties were willing to fight, but the seconds could not agree upon the terms. Young shood was well yesterday, attended a party last evening, and killed himself after returning home. He has a large tamily connection here. The sad event has excited much sympathy. The Mood family are remarkable for picty and worth, and have furnished several able members to the South Carolina Conference."

A large concouse of people attended the tuneral and burial services of the deceased, which took place Thursday afternoon, and prominent among these nattenuance were all the pupils the sauning Academy, who, with . arror 'ty's stood around the grave of their teacher white the last sad rites were being performed.

Anecdote of Patrick Henry.

When the celebrated Patrick Hen ry, of Virginia, was near the close of life, and in feeble health, he laid his hand on the Bible, and addressed an old friend who was with him. "Here is a book," said he, "worth more than does not determs from expressing our all ever printed; yet it is my misforh aics, views in the matter. I ook at tone never to have read it with proper attention and feeling till lately." About the same time he wrote to his daughter: "I hear it said that the Deists have claimed me. The thought gives me more pain than the appellation of Tory-I consider religion of infin tely higher importance than colities, and I find much cause to reproach myself that I have lived so long and given no decided and public

Church and Theatre.

The Savannah Sunday Telegram says the Chicago preachers are discussing whether church members ought to be allowed to go to the theatre. In Atlanta the question has long been settled in the affirmative. The President of the State Sunday School Association, the President of the Young Men's Christian Association, as well as Sunday School Superintendents and church officials, attend the theatre in that city. It does not seem to a matter of discipling in any of the churches, yet we presume there is quite as much re igion, if not plety, in Attanta as in Chicago. - Columbia Pa metto Ycoman.

Whose Ox?

Stop and think about it, stalwart haters of the Soun! This Maine business has a lesson for you." Here is Gen. Chamber ain in charge of the Augusta State House, and the newspapers are filled with talk about 'guns," "revoluti mary measures," "irand" and so on. How you would have railed at such an exhibition below Mason and Dixon's line a few years ago! Your hatred of the "rebels" would have glowed at white heat and justified any use of federal troops for putting down the "new rebellion." Charity is best learned by experience, to be sure. We of New England now know how it is ourselves. - Springfield Republican.

Mr Denis Kearney when in Boston was interviewed by the Herald, which was obliged to go out and borrow a for of oashes to fill the blank places in his conversation.
